

Testing/Certifying Labs

CE Marking - Testing Laboratories and Notified Bodies

Information for those seeking to comply with EU directives such as RoHS, WEEE, Medical Devices, EMC, and Radio Equipment.

General information about placing products on the market in the EU can be obtained in the EU Blue Guide. The conformity assessment requirements are unique to each Directive.

The following list of laboratories is intended as an initial resource for U.S. businesses seeking assistance in complying with European Union (EU) “CE marking” requirements. It is not intended to be a comprehensive compilation of U.S. companies that provide CE marking testing and related services nor an endorsement of any company. The names of the companies on this list have been collected over several years, through research by the staff of the Office of European Union and Regional Affairs, U.S. Department of Commerce, by referral, and through direct requests for inclusion.

The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) maintains a list of U.S. Conformity Assessment Bodies (CABs) that have been approved by the European Commission as Notified Bodies for the EMC Directive and Radio Equipment Directive under the US-EU Telecom MRA. Please refer to the links under “European Union”. There is no mandatory use of a notified body under the EMC Directive. There are some cases where the use of a notified body is mandated under the Radio Equipment Directive. Please contact NIST at mra@nist.gov for further information.

The U.S. Notified Bodies may also offer separate testing services for standards that support the manufacturer’s CE marking.

The list of labs below includes labs that are formally authorized to certify products covered by regulated directives for CE Mark requirements. These labs are affiliated with EU-notified bodies and are marked with an “*”. Regulated directives cover products deemed by the EU to be too dangerous to be self-certified without some involvement of an independent third-party conformity assessment body such as a lab or a notified body, for example. The list also includes independent labs that can perform testing for CE Mark requirements for non-regulated Directives such as the EMC and Low Voltage Directives.

Even for products that allow self-certification and do not require a notified body’s approval, a company should use a lab to test that its product has met the essential requirements of the applicable Directive.

Starting May 26, 2020, and May 26, 2022, the European Union’s Medical Device Regulation (MDR2017/745) and In-Vitro Medical Device Regulation (IVDR) will govern the production and distribution of medical devices in Europe, and compliance with the regulation is mandatory for medical device companies that want to sell their products in the European marketplace. Notified bodies play a central role in complying with these regulations. The links below identify the approved notified bodies for the MDR and IVDR.

- IVDR

For more information on laboratories, please contact: Bob Straetz, EU Specialist, Department of Commerce, Office of the European Union and Regional Affairs, Phone: (202) 482-4496, Fax (202) 482-2897

Please Note Abbreviations Below:

- CP - Construction Products
- EMC - Electromagnetic Compatibility
- ATEX - Equipment for Use in Potentially Explosive Atmospheres
- GA - Gas Appliances
- LV - Low Voltage
- M – Machinery
- MD - Medical Devices
- AIMD - Active Implantable Medical Devices
- PPE - Personal Protective Equipment
- SPV - Simple Pressure Vessels
- T – Toys
- RED - Radio Equipment Directive
- IVD - In Vitro Diagnostic Medical Devices
- NAWI - Non-Automatic Weighing Instruments
- NE - Noise Emissions (for equipment for outdoor use)
- RC - Recreational Craft
- ME - Marine Equipment
- PE - Pressure Equipment
- RoHS – Restriction of Hazardous Substances
- WEEE – Waste Electrical Electronic Equipment
