

Complying with U.S. Export Controls

Understanding and staying compliant with U.S. export regulations is vital to U.S. companies who are currently or planning to sell to international markets. Don't miss your opportunity to learn directly from BIS's professional counseling staff and other government presenters.

US Export Controls and Compliance Workshop

Date: April 29, 2020

Time: 8:30am to 5pm with registration starting at 8:00am

Location: The Power Center at Duquesne University, 600 Forbes Avenue Pittsburgh, PA 15282

U.S export regulations impact companies of all sizes and levels of experience. Whether a company is a small and new to exporting or large and experienced, understanding U.S. export regulations is vital component to company operations.

Join us, along with professional export regulation and compliance specialists and practitioners, for a one-day workshop to help companies understand the U.S. Export Administration Regulations (EAR), how and where they impact a company, and how to develop and maintain a process for compliance

Topics to be covered include:

- Fundamentals of U.S Export Regulations
- Export Compliance Fundamentals
- Developing an Export Compliance and Management Program
- How Export Controls Impact Contracts, Incoterms, and More
- Deemed Exports and Technology Plans
- Due Diligence and Screening Orders and Customers

This one-day workshop gives you the opportunity to learn first-hand and ask questions to experienced U.S. export regulations and compliances specialists that are subject matter experts on export control topics, regulations and procedures – a prime opportunity to have your specific questions addressed!

For more information please contact Steven Murray at 412-644-2819 | steven.murray@trade.gov

