Know Before You Go

Predominant Religion*	Islam (UAE, Morocco, Algeria, Qatar, Egypt) Judaism (Israel)
Gift giving in business settings	Frequent. Give and receive with your right hand. Don't gift alcohol.
Hospitality	It is polite to accept coffee when it is offered. Hold the cup in your right hand. When you do not want more coffee, gently shake the cup to signal that you have had enough.
Gender	Women are less represented in the workplace (but times are changing). Attire restrictions for women.
Predominant Language*	Arabic (Qatar, Egypt, UAE) French (Algeria and Morocco) Hebrew (Israel)
Meetings	Small talk and "getting to know you" are important in relationship-building. Be punctual, but in parts of the region, expect from your counterparts a more relaxed attitude toward time. Traditional attire common. Business cards are exchanged. Take time to examine card when offered. Pay attention to and use titles.

but note that the region in general, and UAE in particular, is incredibly diverse – there are people from more than 200 nationalities living and working in Dubai!*

Business Attire

- Generally, U.S travelers will find business and casual attire to be more formal and conservative than in the United States. Western business attire is common in professional settings.
- Women: modest Western business dress common –pant suits, skirts and blouse, dresses – but with longer sleeves, higher necklines, longer hems, looser fits. No headscarf necessary for Western visitors.
- Men: suit and tie recommended.
- In Israel, business attire is less formal than in the U.S, with the exception of meetings with high level executives and government officials, where a suit and tie or business formal dress should be worn.
- Networking Reception attire: business

Logistics & Travel Considerations

COVID-19 Requirements:

Those seeking to enter Morocco must:

- Present a negative PCR test taken less than 48 hours before boarding the plane (for those 7+ years of age);
- Submit to rapid antigen testing upon arrival in Morocco; and
- Submit – if requested – to random PCR testing (for those 7+ years of age) after entry into Morocco.

Arriving passengers who test positive at the airport will be required to self-isolate at their residences and will be subject to monitoring by government authorities.

Morocco requires proof of vaccination to enter most private and public establishments, including hotels, restaurants, cafes, gyms, hammams, grocery stores, and public modes of transportation. We recommend U.S. citizens carry their white CDC card as proof of vaccination.
