MARKET VOID

If it works, why are you still getting breached...

1 Too much noise
How do I determine what is real threat vs. noise?

2 Security theater
Is this truly to monitor and you have the resources to do this?

3 Knowledge expertise
Do they understand what and how to deal with intelligence?

4 Competing priorities
Is there a focus on understanding what is outside of the wall?

5 Resource constraints
Is this dedicated resource or shared function?

6 Source of intelligence
Commodity vs. Tailored

7 Lack of coverage
Global footprint possible?

8 Wide vs. Deep
What is the service providers specialty? And how do we verify?

9 Marketing vs. Reality
Not just about volume or what is advertised, does it address my mission?

10 Point in time
Focused on defects and vulnerabilities vs. continuous monitoring of actual "threats"

Focused on "asset risk" vs. "threat risk", meaning, who is targeting you and are you breached?
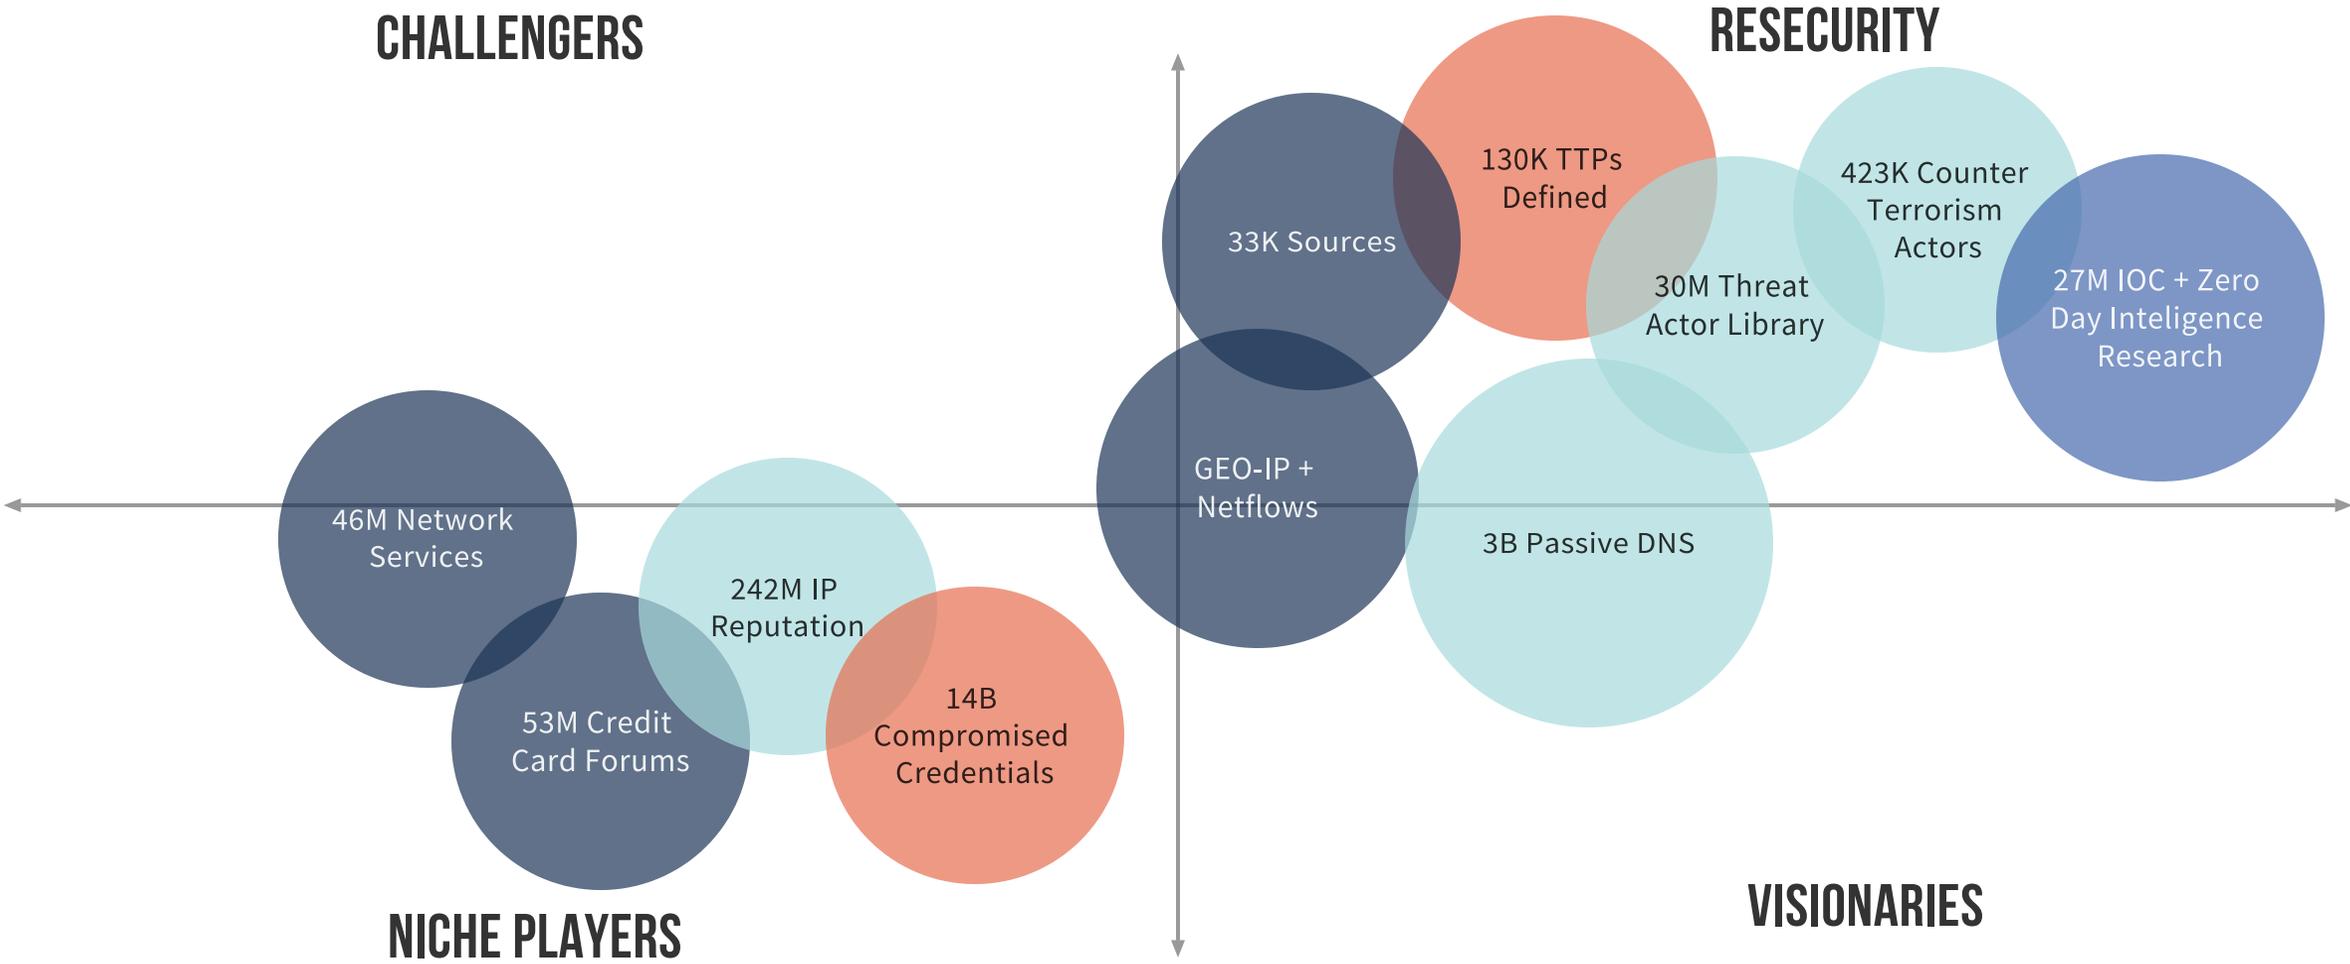

COMPARATIVE MARKET

It's not about feature/function, it's about intelligence... Are you targeted and/or breached. Question to answer...

Threats — Focusing on 30M threat actors who is actually targeting you

Actual — Tailored to each customers to align to what threat is happening

Integration — Modularized for API integration vs. noise coming through your SOAR. Available as White Label for MSP

Source of Intelligence — Not commercially available data or open source - use google - powered by all source threat intelligence platform
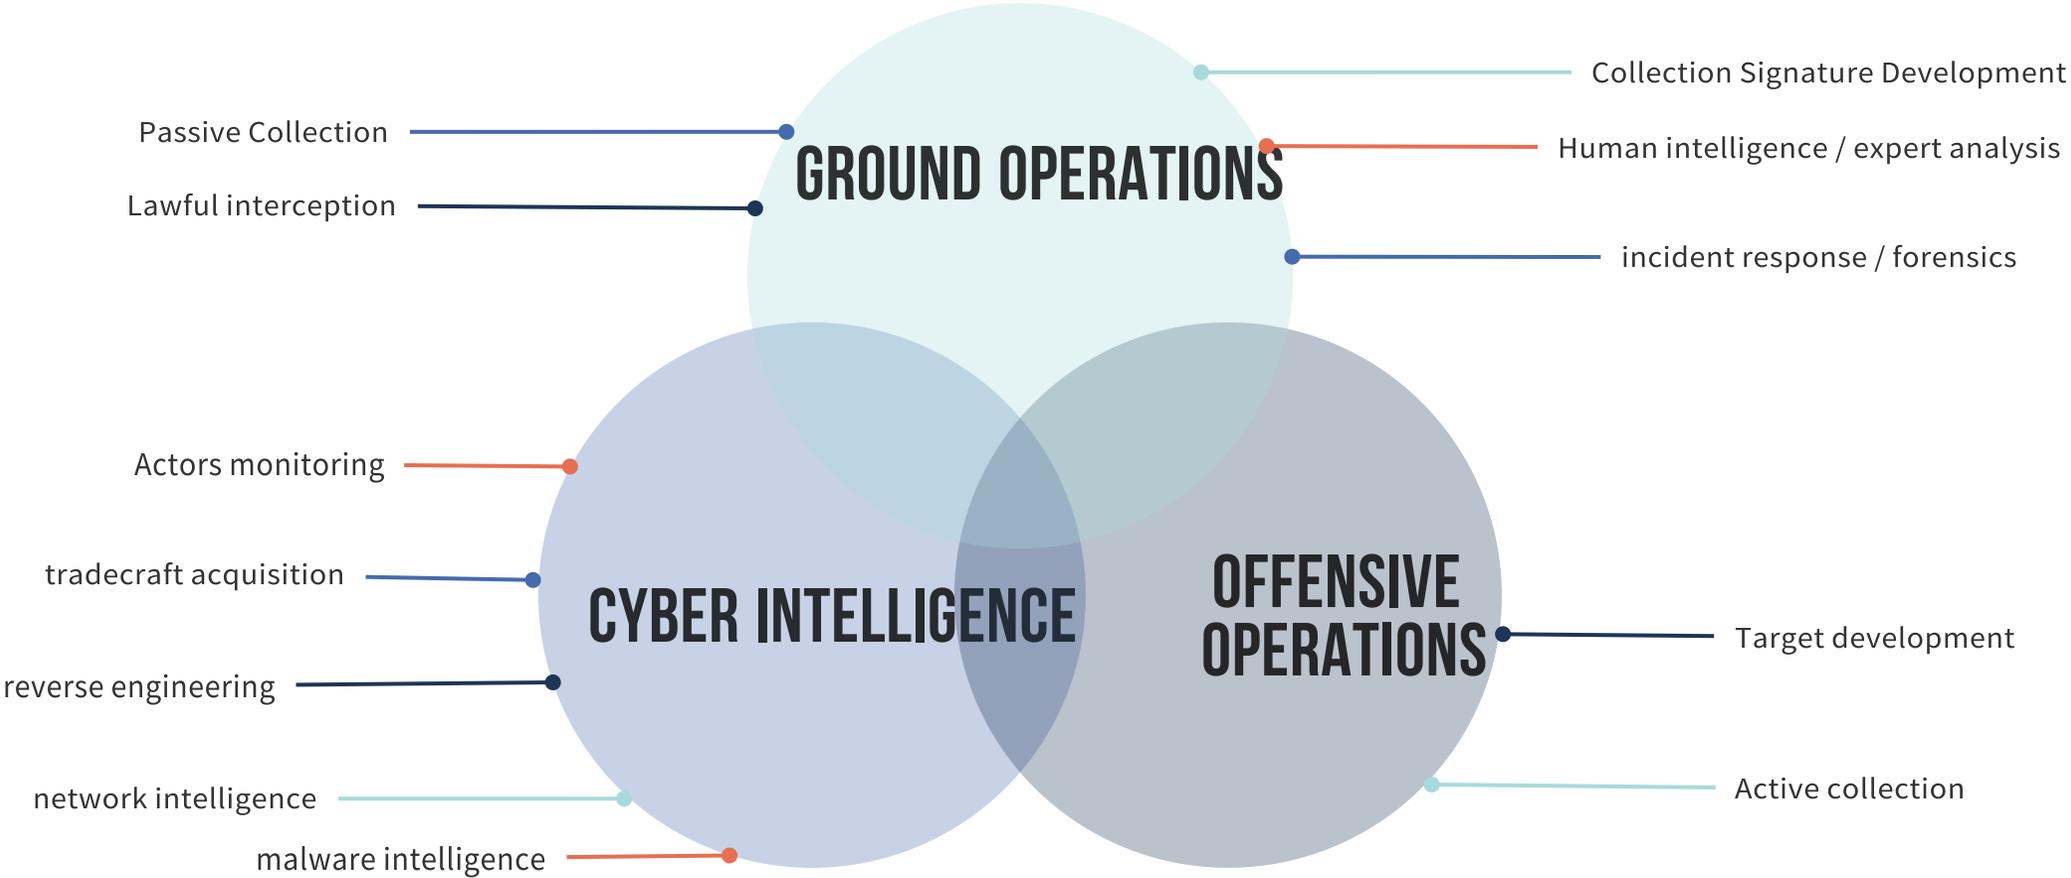

Reality check: Read criminals don't use forum or share information, that's already done and sold in the marketplace after the fact...
